

A person should be able to retain there personal phone number when they switch Cell Phone Carriers. The number should not be the vehicle used by the carrier to hold you hostage to their service. Good service should be the reason a person stays with a carrier.